

Transcendental Development

Abstract: Policies for economic development were not successful, because the number of people in extreme poverty has been increased during last thirty years. The implementation of the basic needs model was not successful as well. Therefore in order to tackle the extreme poverty, Islamic economic teachings support the guidelines of transcendental development which has three phases, growth-change-transcendent. Moreover transcendental development is distinguished from other development theories in the following aspects that in the article were explained as follows: Phases, attitude towards human being, criteria, intermediate target, planning of economic development, dimension, and core of development, role of economic development, role of culture and the goal of economic development.
